

Jordan Bradley

Purpose

- A site about me and my skills that I can edit and update as I gain new skills.
- Future reference point for employment or collaborations.

Components

Page list:

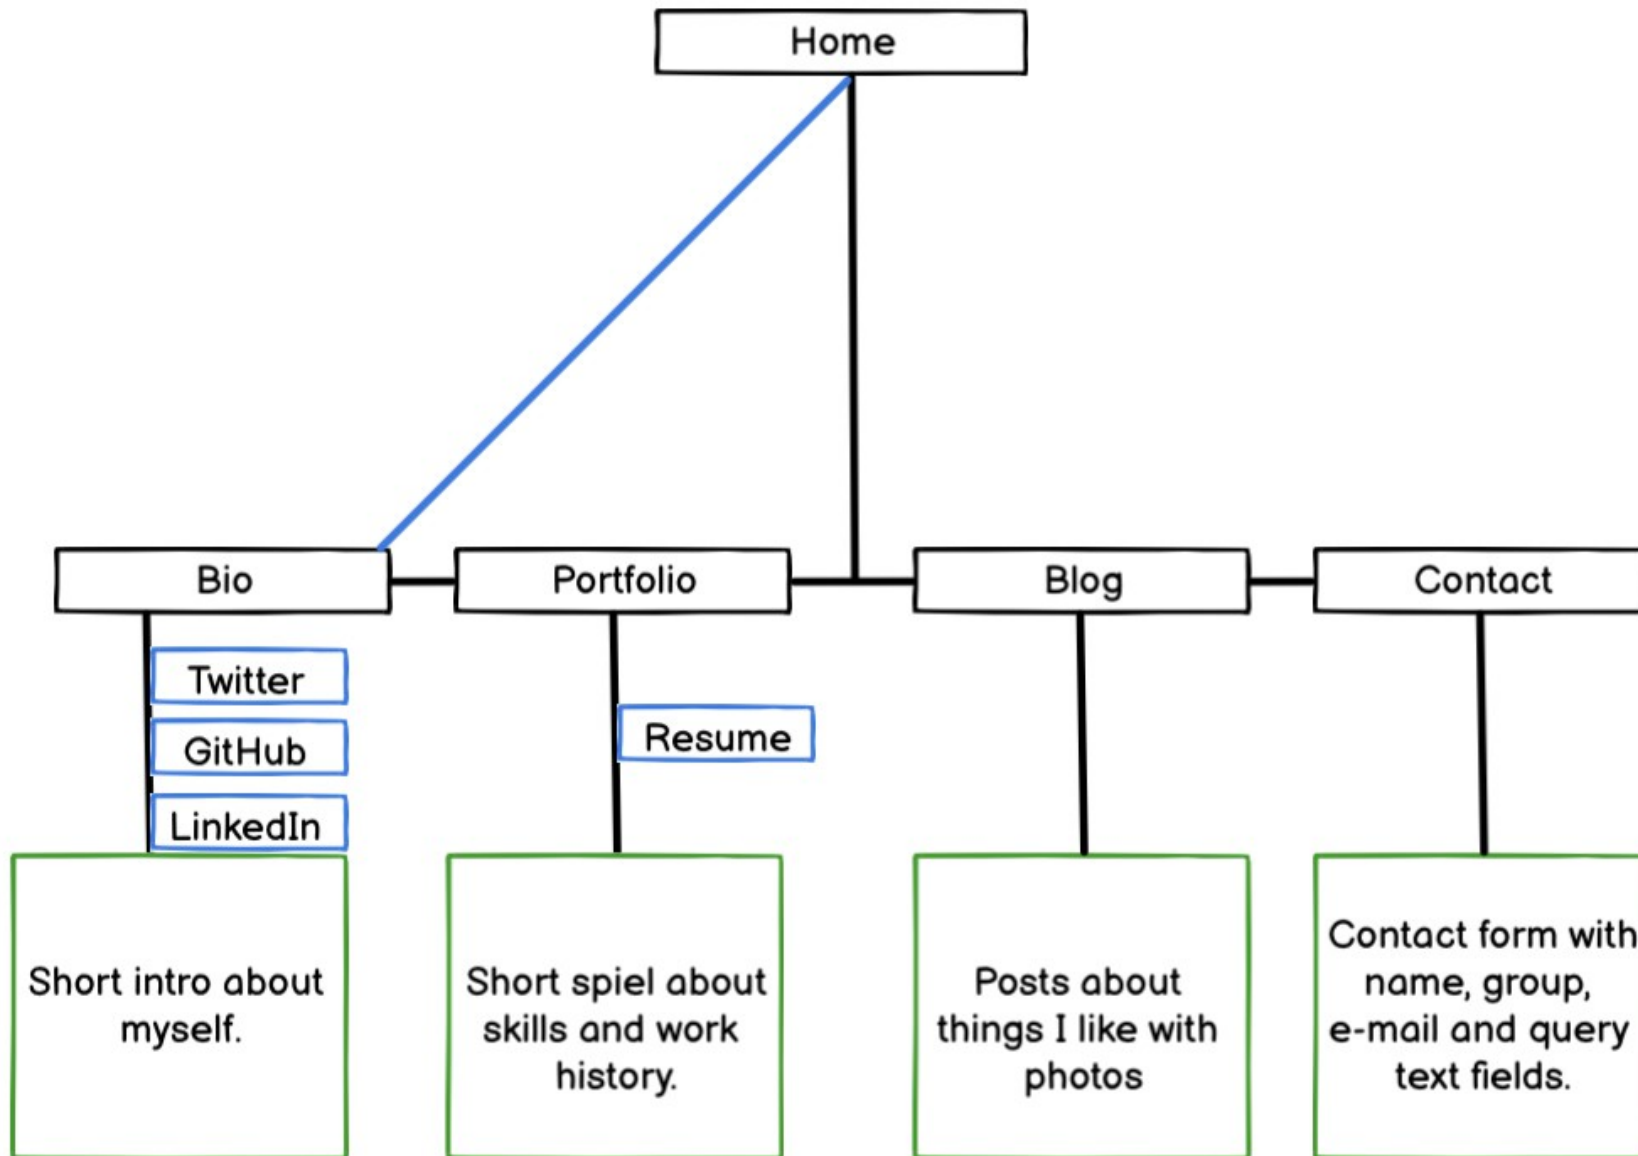

- Home page
- Bio page
- Portfolio page
- Blog page
- Contact page

Styling (Wireframes + Site)

- Minimalistic
- Functional
- Easy to navigate
- Not overwhelming

Shared elements;

- Black nav bar with white hover effect
- Similar title stylisation across 5 pages
- Cream background
- Copyright footing.

In my opinion, a consistent approach to aesthetic creates not only an easier browsing experience, but also an easy to remember one.

Difficulties

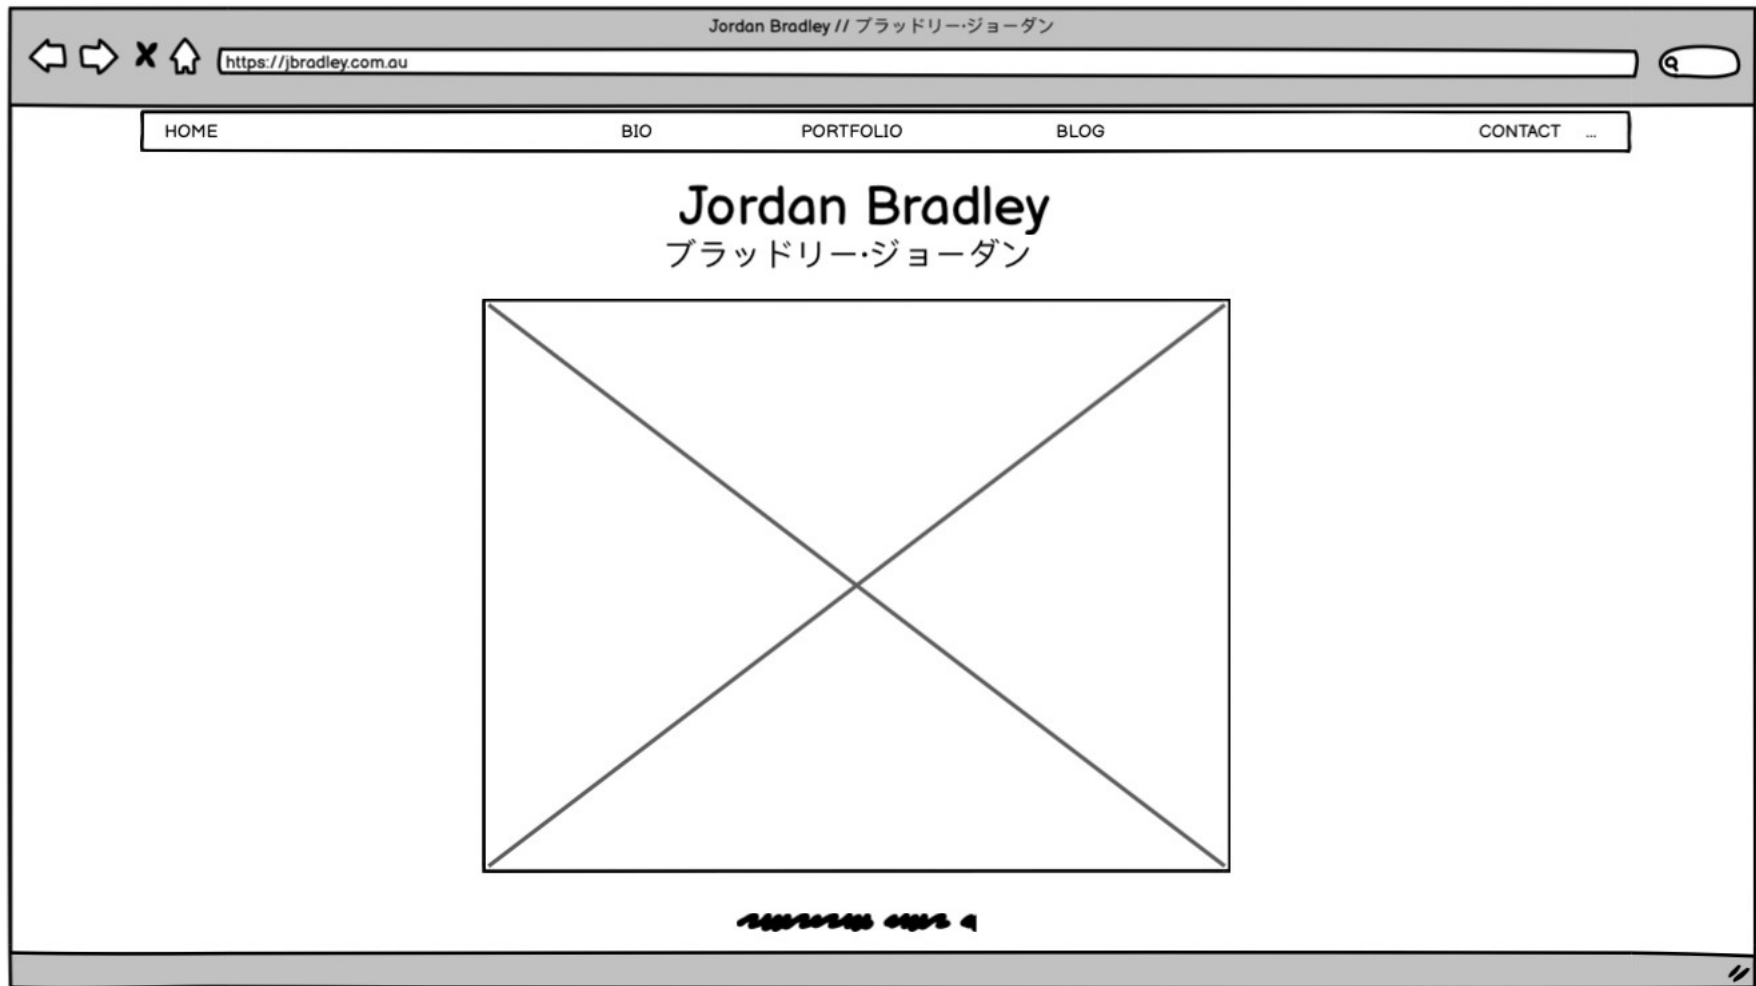

- Deciding on content
- Flex + grid
- Margins + padding
- Discarded elements

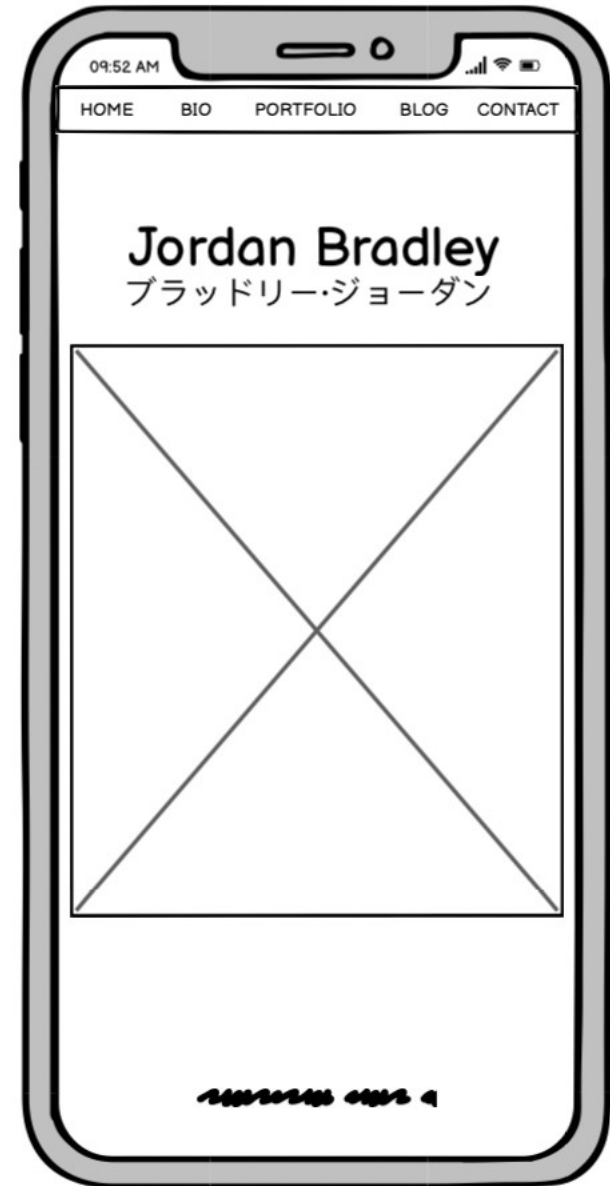

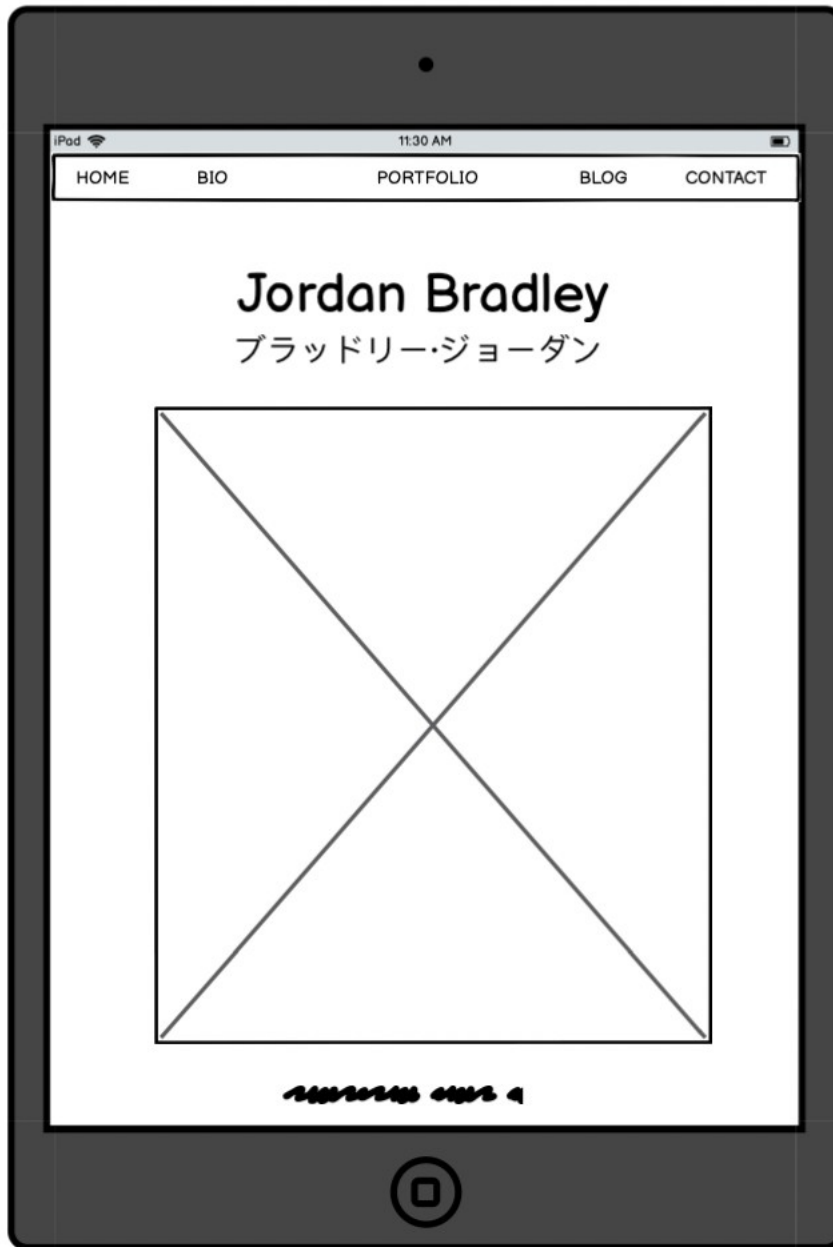

Ethical issues

I don't necessarily feel as if I had any. The vectors were ethically sourced, and all code written and images shown were my own.

Title page

- Photo of myself on a black and white grayscale, hovers into colour. Features a click-thru prompt that takes user onto bio page.

Bio page

- Links to social media pages represented with vectors, highlights upon hovering.
- A short bilingual about me passage factored into a scrolling element.
- A black and white photo of myself.
